1. Mission. The 67th Intelligence Wing (67 IW) is an operational component of the Air Intelligence Agency (AIA), executing intelligence operations that shape the national security environment. The 67 IW is a specialized wing consisting of a worldwide team of intelligence professionals providing global presence, supporting global reach, focusing global power--achieving and maintaining information superiority. The 67 IW provides real-time intelligence through multiple sources to national, theater, and tactical customers.

2. Command. The 67 IW Commander (67 IW/CC):

2.1. Is subordinate to the AIA Commander.

2.2. Commands the 67 IW's intelligence groups with assigned squadrons and detachments on a global spectrum. Also commands the 67th Operations Support Squadron, 67th Support Squadron, and the 67 IW staff.

3. Responsibilities. The 67 IW/CC:

3.1. Exercises command and control of AIA personnel dispersed among the 67 IW's intelligence groups, squadrons, detachments, and operating locations worldwide.

3.2. Participates in air component operations by providing personnel, equipment, focused collection, and tailored services (gain, attack, defend, and exploit).

3.2.1. Collects raw information through 67 IW units using various collection platforms for intelligence and information operations--Air Force Information Superiority.

3.2.2. Provides intelligence, communications-computer systems security, and electronic combat services to tactical warfighters, theater battle managers, and national-level decision makers.

3.2.3. Collects, analyzes, produces, and disseminates real-time intelligence in various products to AIA, unified and specified commanders, the National Security Agency, and National Command Authorities.

3.3. Executes AIA policies, plans, and directives.
